The Annual Sick and Retired Priests Special Collection

The Clergy Trust Fund provides for the well-being and care of priests in the Diocese. This includes stipends, food, travel home for overseas priests, retreats, and all costs relating to healthcare. The Clergy Trust Fund is struggling to meet growing medical costs. Hence, your giving to this special collection is most appreciated especially by our elderly priests who then benefit from your generosity. Your support is a great way of showing your gratitude to your priests. Many thanks and blessings to all who contribute to this special collection. I apologise for the late notification this year. Monsignor Brian Walsh, Chairman, Clergy Trust Fund.

I've never been good at waiting. And this year has pushed my waiting skills to their limit. Of course, I'm not alone here. The whole world has been waiting; waiting for a treatment, waiting for a vaccine, waiting for a cure, waiting for normal. So, it's not surprising that the longer we wait, the harder it is to keep waiting. Lately, I've been thinking about waiting and anticipation. This year has been filled with both in abundance. My own waiting and anticipation has been a strange mix of dread about what might happen next and hope that things will turn the corner and get better soon. Anticipation of things getting worse could be the very definition of anxiety. These are the times when my imagination is my worst enemy. But, sometimes, anticipation is great. Sometimes it increases the pleasure of the thing to come. Remember when you were a kid and you couldn't wait for your birthday to come? That kind of anticipation builds excitement and increases the joy of its arrival. Most of us have been waiting almost a year for "better." But there have been times in history when waiting for something good has taken on biblical proportions, literally. As we begin our Advent preparations for Christmas, the Church encourages us to remember how long the people of God had to wait for the coming of the Savior. Some scholars say it was hundreds of years from the time of Abraham when God promised to "provide the lamb" for the sacrifice to the time of Christ's birth. But, if you think about it from a different starting point (say, the Garden of Eden and the Fall of Adam), you could easily say that the people of God waited thousands of years for the birth of Christ. Did the people of God get discouraged? Yes. Did they lose their way at times? Yes. Did they need to be reminded of the hope of God's promise? Yes. Did they have to grow in trust and faith in God while they waited? Definitely yes! I'm not sharing this with you to "fix" your problem of waiting for life to get back to normal. I'm not sharing this with you to make you feel bad that you can't seem to wait a year when the people of God had to wait hundreds of years. Really, I just want to remind myself (and you while I'm at it) that good things are worth waiting for. But, even more, I want to connect my experience of waiting with that of the People of God as they waited for the coming of the Saviour. I want to use this time of waiting to increase my excitement and joy for the coming of Christ this Christmas instead of letting it increase my anxiety and frustration. And, if it helps you along the way, even better. Catholicmom.com Copyright 2020 Laura Nelson

Kindness

To recap what we now know: it did not begin in a laboratory in Wuhan, nor with a pangolin or bat, but it already lay dormant within us, like a seed in need of certain conditions to grow; its symptoms are many and various, and may include some, or all, of the following: tear drops, sudden laughter, a feeling of warmth, and a peculiar uplifting of the heart; it leaves its traces everywhere: from boxes left on doorsteps to conversations over fences; it can be transmitted over vast distances, through a phone call, or from a smile across a street, or a certain softness of tone spoken beside a hospital bed; it affects young and old equally; there is no race or gender immune from it; it has the power to topple bad governments; if one person were to pass it on to just three others and they, in turn, were to pass it on to three more, in no time at all, the world would be full of it, and where, might we ask ourselves, would we be then. Brian Bilston 'Put on the new self ... be kind and compassionate to one another.' (Ephesians 4: 24,32)

Comfort my people

The word 'power' can have negative echoes for us, suggesting an overbearing will to dominate others. Isaiah speaks about power of the Lord that in a very different way. God is like a shepherd feeding his flock, gathering lambs in his arms, holding them to his breast, and gently leading the ewes who are due to give birth. This is a very tender power, a life-force of faithful and enduring love, a love that gathers and nurtures and reassures. This is the God whom John the Baptist invites us to rediscover this Advent. It is this God who comes to us in the person of Jesus of Nazareth. John the Baptist refers to Jesus as "more powerful than I am." Jesus is the powerful one, in the sense that the first reading defines power. He gives full expression to God's tender love that brings healing to the broken, strength to the weak and rest to the weary. It is this adult Jesus, now risen Lord, whose coming towards us and present to us we celebrate at Christmas. The Baptist calls us this Advent to prepare a way in our lives for the coming of this Lord, this Shepherd, in whom mercy and faithfulness have met, justice and peace have embraced. (Responsorial Psalm). This is the God whom we seek this Advent, who can give greater depth to all our other encounters. Association-ofcatholicpriests.ie

Jesus For Real

Dear friends and supporters, We believe that, for the time being at least, the season for Jesus 4 Real has come to an end, after 31 glorious years. Sadly, after a great deal of prayer and seeking the Lord’s guidance, we have decided to cancel future camps and put the Jesus 4 Real camp ministry “into recess”. (Going “into recess” is not a final cancellation, but signifies a hope that, at some stage in the future, the Lord will “fan the flame” with new leaders and Jesus 4 Real will burst into life again!) We wish to thank you sincerely for your faithful support and encouragement over these many years, and to ask you to continue to pray for the Jesus 4 Real family : Leaders, campers and helpers, past and present. As you can imagine, this decision has caused us a great deal of soul-searching and not a little anguish (!!!) but, while we mourn, in a sense, we must also rejoice that we have been privileged to share the lives of so many amazing young people over the past 31 years! Their enthusiasm, talent, energy, commitment to the Lord and joyful willingness to seek the reality of the Holy Spirit have spurred us on over the years and brought us infinite blessings! While we have decided to discontinue our camps, it does not mean that the Jesus 4 Real ministry has ceased, and Anne and I will continue to welcome opportunities to meet and share with young people in other settings, such as youth groups, Parishes, camps, school groups, etc. The website and Face Book group pages will continue to operate for the foreseeable future. May God continue to bless you, as He blesses us,

Anne and Andy Lovell and the Elisha Team (Father Kevin Connors, Paul McCardle, Renee Vaz, Matthew Grevatt, Anita Crowe and Melanie Teahan.)
